Please don't crush VoIP technology by putting a burden on companies to allow for easy government wiretaps. If the government wants to wiretap VoIP, let them set up their own sniffers, at their own expense. This technology has the potential to greatly improve our ability to communicate cheaply. It's just another internet service, it shouldn't be subject to any more control than FTP or HTTP.